View Systems Announces Partnership With National Security Resources

BALTIMORE, MD--(Marketwire - Feb 9, 2012) - View Systems, Inc. (OTCBB: VSYM), a security solutions provider, announced a partnership with facial recognition company National Security Resources (NSR).

View Systems announces that the companies are working together to develop and deliver an integrated solution as the first combined technology product line. We are integrating NSR's advanced "scan and match facial recognition" ability into our concealed weapons detection ViewScan. NSR is famous for positively identifying Bin Laden during the capture on the fly while the Navy Seal had his hand on the trigger transmitting the pictures to decision makers via satellite. NSR is the choice of United States Marshals for facial recognition.

Founder of NSR, Dr. Glenn Crowe commented that, "This project represents a major advance in security at a time when the need is critical, and we look forward to delivering this product line with View Systems. Our customers have been asking for this type of product for years and we feel that View Systems is the perfect partner for us to deliver it with. The need for advanced security applications of this type is growing as perpetrators look for ways to defeat screening attempts to gain access to schools, courthouses, and the workplace environment."

The biometrics market is estimated to grow from $4,217.2 million in 2010 to $11,229.3 million in 2015, at an estimated CAGR of 21.6% from 2010 to 2015. The growth of the biometrics market is mainly due to increasing concerns of the countries in terms of strengthening national security. <http://www.marketsandmarkets.com/Market-Reports/biometric-market-278.html>

Biometrics market expected to hit $12 billion in 2015.
